THE BUSINESS MAN IN POLITICS.

Business men large and small—by whose ability and integrity this country has attained its commercial supremacy should carry the same enterprising spirit into public affairs. They have too long held back and permitted the self seeking politician to take the lead. As a means of increasing the interest and participation of business men in pointed questions, the business men of Seattle, Washington, through a conference of representatives from the principal cities of the state, secured the organization of the Civic League of the State of Washington.

The plan provides for county organizations to look after matters within the county, while in questions of statewide interest all county organizations join hands and pursue a common policy. The League directed its first efforts to the support of good men in the primaries and the securing as candidates for office, business men who would not have consented to be candidates without the promise of such support in the November election the same support was given capable and deserving candidates. With the convening of the legislature, the League opened an office at the capital and gave the business interests of the state a vigilance and information bureau, so that they might give to needed measures intelligent and effective support.

The form of organization of the Civic League of Washington is one that could be used in every state. It would require money to build up the organization and to secure the publicity to make it effective, but business men are quite capable of carrying it through. They ought to see that such a participation in public affairs is a duty they owe to themselves and to their country.

So far as the Americans living in the mining districts near the border state of Sonora, including Cananea, Nacozari and El Tigre are concerned it is to be necessary that they should abandon Mexico, not withdrawing them were warned to do so by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. Americans coming across the border on business during the last few days say that there is no sign of any danger or hostility to Americans in Sonora. The same friendly relations are maintained between Mexicans and Americans that have always prevailed there. The only disturbance in the state of Sonora is in the vicinity of Guaymas where the constitutionalists are still holding Ojeda forces in check. The northern part of the state is normal and peaceful, except for the absence of those who are enlisted in the cause of the constitutionalists.

The public schools of Cochise county were opened for another year this week in many of the districts and before September is half gone it is expected that every school in the county will be in operation. Cochise county may well be proud of her splendid public schools and the number of them. There is not a neighborhood in the county without a school, thus giving to every boy and girl the opportunity of securing an education at home. Many new school buildings have been provided during the present year and several new districts have been created. It requires a vast amount of money to support the schools of this county, but this money is supplied by the taxpayers without a murmur.

LAWS FOR CHILDREN.

Discussing a new departure in laws for children enacted by the last legislature of Ohio, the Minneapolis Journal says:

"Often times a law, good in itself, fails to work well in practice because its makers have not correlated it with other existing laws on the same subject. To be beneficently effective a new law should fit into the framework of laws already in operation, altering them so as to make the correlation perfect. This is an aspect of law-making which, as the Outlook recently pointed out, is too frequently neglected. The modern tendency, however, is to take this into account. The Ohio legislature, for example, has recently accepted and enacted into law the recommendation of a commission named by Governor Harrison in 1911 to codify and revise all the laws of the state relating to children. Thus has come into existence in Ohio what the Survey aptly calls a Children's Magna Charta.

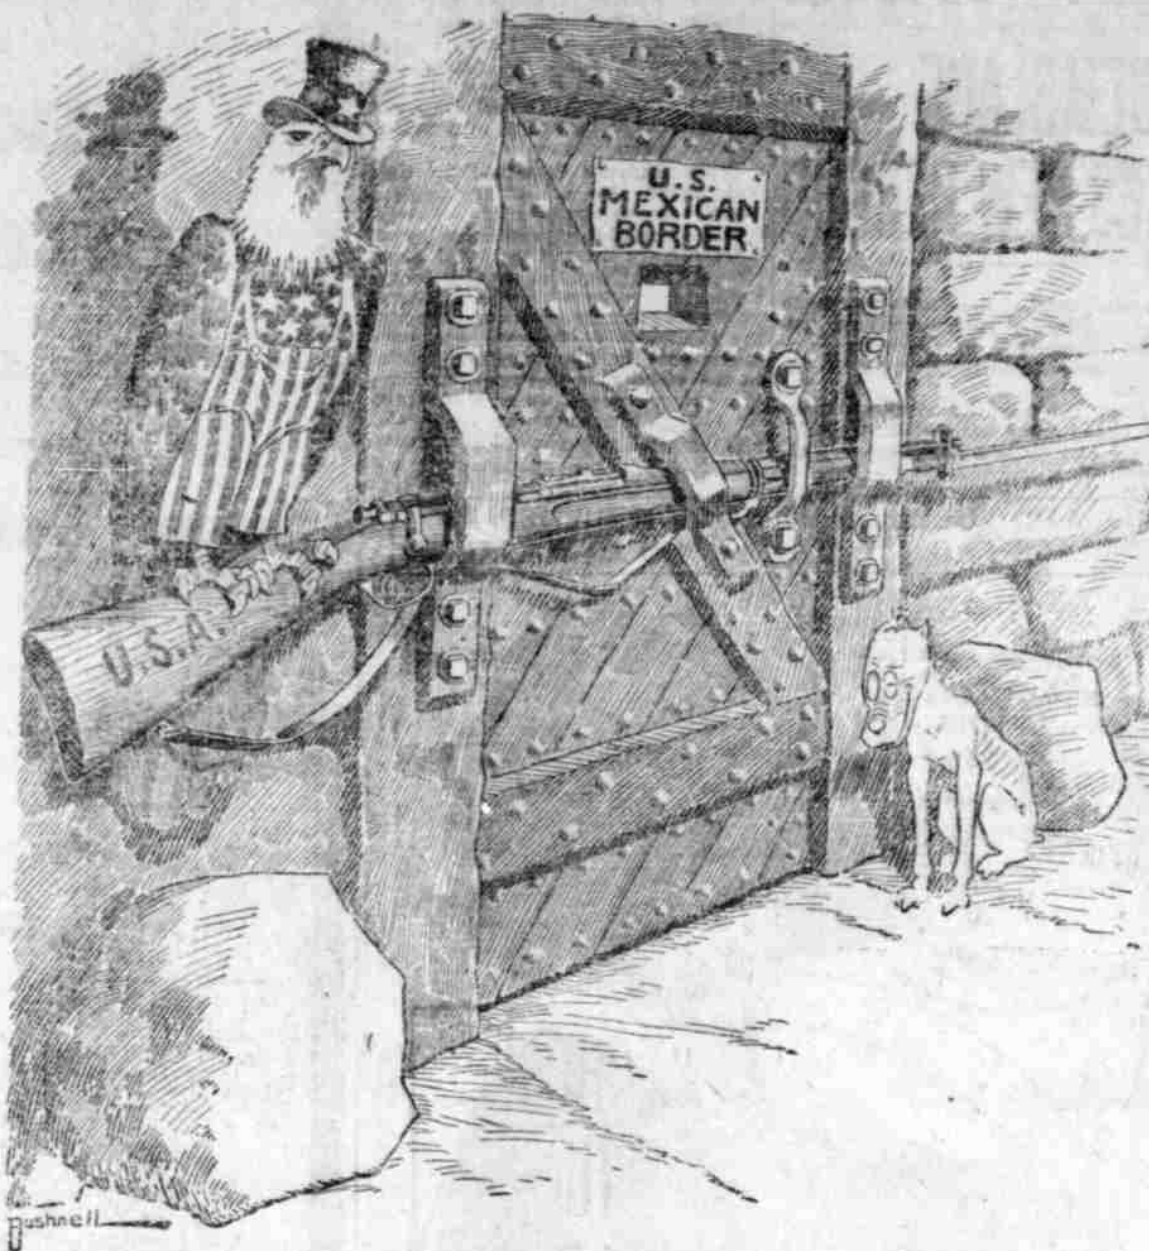

"It is interesting to note that the new code gives to the state board of charities many new duties, such as the supervision of all institutions, public or private which receive and care for children, and all maternity hospitals. The laws creating juvenile courts and empowering them to grant allowances to mothers in need of assistance are incorporated into the code. These courts are to have jurisdiction over all cases of parental cruelty and neglect and over all persons who contribute to the dependency or delinquency of children. The code also provides for compulsory education and authorizes the medical inspection of school children. The uniform child labor laws, which the national child labor committee is seeking to have adopted by all the state are adopted in the main."

More and more progressive legislation is looking to the protection and development of the child into a good, self supporting man or woman. Great care is taken and has been taken for quite a while, that horses, cattle, sheep and hogs shall be well cared for, disease stamped out and breeds improved, but the governments, national, state and city, largely leave the child to its environment, like Topsy, just to grow up.

The Michigan copper country remains in a state of turmoil and business depression on account of the determined prolongation of the strike called there by the Western Federation two months ago. While the mining companies have been able to start up some work, conditions there are very far from being normal. The companies are determined not to give recognition to the miners' union and the union is determined to win recognition and this makes bad business for all. Bisbee knows what damage can be wrought to all business engagements by a labor strike, as the one here in 1907 proved to be the worst thing ever encountered by this district. It is to be hoped that Bisbee will never be called on to go through another such an ordeal.

The Copper Queen is ready to start the erection of a new precipitating plant in the Warren district. The location selected for this plant is adjoining the club house on the Warren side. The old plant on the old smelter site will be torn away to make room for other improvements. Thus does the Warren district continue to grow in size and importance.

OUR BACK DOOR POLICY

Of course there is no chance for Globe to participate in the automobile race from El Paso to Phoenix over the borderland route, except by entering cars to run in the race as already fixed. The offer of Globe to add $2000 to the prize purse if the racers were permitted to choose the Globe route if they desired to do so cannot be considered by those who have provided for the race over the borderland route. So far as the Review is concerned it would be glad to see Globe promote another race for the fair over its favorite route from Lordsburg and the two thousand dollars mentioned by Globe would go a long ways in promoting such a race, but such a race would not nor could not be connected in any way with the race over the Borderland route.

Some newspapers are asking the question: "Where do the dead rats go?" Perhaps the rats know. This calls to mind the story of the Englishman who received a cablegram from India that his son had been killed. He cabled "ship the body home." When the ship steamed up to the wharf, the hearthbroken parent ready to receive the body of his son, found the carcass of a large Bengal tiger consigned to him. He cabled: "Where is my boy, some mistake." The reply was: "No mistake; boy in tiger."—Exchange.

Governor Hunt is trying to place all the blame on the legislature for the failure of his administration. Had not the legislature called a halt on his crazy "honor convict" policy the governor would have been much farther from success than he is today. The legislature was not a howling success, but it opened the eyes of some of the people in the state to the fact that the prison management was pursuing a policy of downright idiocy in allowing prisoners to run at large on the streets and in the saloons of Florence.

Graham county citizens are making splendid progress with arrangements for the annual fair to be held in Safford in October. The Gila valley, of which Safford is the metropolis, is one of the richest agricultural sections of the state and the annual fair there has had steady growth every year since it was first started.

Things seem to be moving mighty smooth with the state administration with Sid Osburn in the governor's chair. There have been rumors during the past year that Sid would like to fill the governor's chair for one full term and we believe he could easily make a better record than has been scored by the present incumbent.

The board of supervisors have not yet acted on the proposition to have Cochise county represented at the state fair with a creditable exhibit which will show the progress of the various industries and enterprises in this county. It is believed that one thousand dollars would be sufficient to provide this fair exhibit and to our mind the board could well afford to appropriate this amount and that the return for it would fully justify the expenditures.

Senator Mark Smith has been promoted to the chairmanship of the irrigation and reclamation committee in the senate. For the west there is no more important committee in the senate and it should be gratifying indeed to Arizona that one of our senators has been placed in so distinguished and important position.

Word comes from Illinois that "Uncle Joe" Cannon will be the republican candidate for congress next year in the Danville district. No one will be surprised to see this old veteran congressman "come back." Many believe that only the grim reaper can prevent him from performing this feat.

Now that we have reached the first full month of 1913 the citizens of Bisbee are wondering what becomes of the usual hot summer weather this year. Truly, the climate of Bisbee is glorious and has no equal in the southwest.

Primary nominations will be nearing the fortunate aspirants in one short year, but before that time arrives there will be some lively political sparring. It is expected that the woods will be full of legislative candidates.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR BURBANK
No other name
To Burbank's fame
Could ever hold a candle,
If that wise rent
Would but invent
A melon with a handle.

And, ah, his worth
Would know no death,
But stay forever, vernal,
If he could make
A cob and shake
It free from every kernel.

His fame, I'm sure,
Would be secure
If he were only growing
A rooster smart.
That wouldn't start
At a man's crowing.

He'd be the rage
From age to age.
Through decades without number.
Don't you think so,
If he could grow
A painless green cucumber?

The democratic tariff bill is coming down the home stretch in fine condition. This measure will easily win the race and then the currency bill will be put on the track.
